AD BREAK*PERENNIAL

The Fake News Update is brought to you by Sand. You know, Anahita, I have an assortment of glass orbs. But did you know that those orbs used to not be glass? In fact, they started life as an assortment of tiny bones and seashells and other sea creatures, masquerading as ocean sediment. Over thousands of years, those little sea particles got together, compressed tightly, much like my Spanks, and became a beautiful crystalline orb, which sits on the fireplace mantle of my brownstone. Sand: Get It In Your Crevasses!

Thank you Anahita. Now this letter looks to be from our own intern, Kelly the Intern, care of the KLMNOP Studios in Bitch Mountain, New York. Well that's plum-dandy, Kelly. We know Kelly is our number one fan over here. Wave for the microphone, Kelly.. Alright, Kelly the intern writes:

Dear Perennial, I have recently been offered a position at WXYZ-AM which I plan on taking. My time here has been nothing short of hell... [mumbling] ... hard feelings [mumbling] ... soft palate scrapings [mumbling] ... agonizing mental labor.

Respectfully, Kelly

P.S.: I can hear your dandruff through the microphone.

Well, Kelly. That's um... one of the more literate memos I've received from you, to say the least. And that really is... the least I could say. Uh... I wish you joy. And happiness. [gently sobbing] But above all this, I wish you love. And I will always love you. I will always love you.
